

Before you hire a contractor for your next project, calculate the weekly and monthly earnings the finished project will generate. Then, consider the revenue, the hidden expense that grows every hour of every day that your project remains in construction. This loss of potential revenue is a cost that is often overlooked when selecting a contractor for a project.

At CONTECH Facilities Renovation, we understand your business objectives require you to have your project on-line, on time. That is why we provide in-depth project management and skilled crews working flex schedules, on and off shift hours, to complete construction at the earliest date possible. Further, our work in your facility will be done with minimal disruption to your daily activities.

Lost revenue from operations is an absolute, quantifiable expense that can be minimized by using an experienced health care contractor. For information on planning and building your next project to your expectations, call your Client Services Representative today at Construction Technologies. (410) 570-3332
